ECCWD seeks reasons for water rate increase

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

A letter from the East Casey County Water District to the City of Liberty seeking documentation for a proposed water rate increase has drawn the ire of Mayor Steve Sweeney, who called the request “vindictive,” and “an indication of ill will.”

Sweeney’s sharp response came as a result of the ECCWD Board’s letter seeking written justification from the city for a 15 percent increase in the cost of water that the city sells to East Casey.

Sweeney appealed to the board for a 12 percent increase rate increase at their March 13 meeting citing increased chemical, fuel costs and operating costs. The 12 percent increase was changed to 15 percent on March 22 when the City Council approved an increase for city residents.

ECCWD currently pays the city $2.38 per 1,000 gallons of water and the 15 percent increase would raise that 36 cents to $2.74. The 12 percent increase would have meant a 27 cent rate hike.

The board took no action in that meeting but voted in their April 10 meeting to file a written challenge to the proposed increase with the Public Service Commission in Frankfort.

In the interim, the Public Service Commission requested that both sides come to Frankfort on April 26 to talk about a settlement.

In a special called meeting Thursday night to discuss a response to the PSC’s request, ECCWD Board Chairman Ricky Carman said that board members need more information as to why the city needed a rate hike.

“They’re going to have to furnish this information to the PSC, so we need to have this before we can make a decision,” Carman said.

To that end, the board voted for ECCWD Manager Andy Greynolds to write Sweeney a letter seeking specific information as to what increases in water-related expenses that the mayor maintained necessitated the increase.

“The District would like the City to provide a list of all chemicals used by the Water Plant, and invoicing

Celebration of the Arts

More than 350 students at Casey County Middle School participated in the first “Celebration of the Arts” event this past week. CCMS Art teacher Tara Farmer said the students worked in different mediums of painting such as oil pastels, watercolors, pencil, and charcoal drawings. In addition, other students made items as part of a entrepreneurial project. Pictured above, showcasing their “frilly frames” are Shelby Salyers and Callee Bastin. Man charged with robbing pharmacy

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

A Liberty man is behind bars charged with robbing a local pharmacy.

Ronald Carmadi, 51, of 58 Hustonville St., was arrested by Liberty Police Chief Steven Garrett on Thursday and charged with first-degree robbery.

Court records indicate that Carmadi entered Hill’s Pharmacy the previous day about 6 p.m. with a prescription for Hydrocodone.

Garrett said that when Carmadi approached the counter in the pharmacy, he brandished a hand-held Taser at the pharmacy technician and activated it, but without touching her.

Carmadi allegedly told the technician that he didn’t have any money and would she keep the Taser as collateral because he didn’t have any money to pay for the medication.

Garrett stated that the technician was frightened and felt that Carmadi might use the Taser if she didn’t give him the medication. Carmadi took the medication and left the store, the citation stated.

Pharmacy owner Steve Hill declined to give the name of the technician citing the ongoing investigation.

Carmadi was arrested the next day at East Ky. 70 at the entrance to Lake Liberty on a different charge.

Garrett said that he was notified about 7:30 a.m. of a man walking in the roadway.

When he arrived, Garrett said that he asked Carmadi if he had any weapons and Carmadi reached behind his back and pulled the Taser and showed it to Garrett.

Carmadi was arrested on a charge of public intoxication as Garrett said that he was unsteady on his feet and failed three field sobriety tests.

He was also charged with being in possession of a controlled substance not in its original container. Garrett stated that Carmadi had a suspected Viagra pill in a scratched off pill bottle.

Davis offers city land swap

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

A Liberty businessman and real estate developer who was denied authorization for a 50- foot strip of land in a city park to build a street into a commercial development has approached the city with a second proposition.

Ronnie Davis, who’s developing the piece of property on North Wallace Wilkinson Boulevard across from the end of Connector Road, asked the council on Jan. 11 to consider cutting off about 50 feet of the north end of the roadside park.

The state deeded the 1.025-acre park to the city on April 16, 2003 for the purpose of building a welcome center.

Davis said that he wanted to build the street to line up with the connector road so that traffic could enter and exit his property.

The council voted to allow Davis to build the street contingent upon DOT approval of giving the park land for that purpose.

However, Mayor Steve Sweeney asked City Attorney G. Davis Wilson in January to research the issue and then render an opinion as to the legality

City Council honors former mayor

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

The Liberty City Council recently honored a former mayor characterized as a man who loved Liberty and Casey County.

The late Segal Wesley served as council chairman/mayor of Liberty from 1945 to 1949.

Mayor Steve Sweeney presented members of Wesley’s family with a framed photograph of Wesley that now hangs in the council chambers at City Hall.

In making the presentation at the special called meeting on April 18, Sweeney was effusive in his praise of what Wesley meant to the city.

“Segal T. was just a grand fellow, a tremendous community person and leader for our town. He has a street named after

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Reader glad alcohol is not in Liberty

I like Michael Miller's letter to the editor (April 4, 2012 edition) about not wanting to see alcohol sold in Liberty.

Nor do I wish to see alcohol sold anywhere in Casey County. I'm glad Ronnie Davis cleaned up the mess on U.S. 127 at the edge of town. I'm sure all Casey County folks wish him the best with this new business. But at the same time, most folks wish him or anyone else the worst of luck in bringing alcohol to Liberty. I believe the recent vote taken says so.

I liked Larry Rowell's statement (April 11, 2012 edition) about Casey Countians being blessed to have a variety of restaurants in such a small town. Thank you for a well written piece.

In reference to Joberta Wells' article (April 18, 2012 edition), I once had a dog named Blue and he chewed up my mother's shoe. She got mad and grabbed a broom and there was Blue all over the room.

News is always fascinating

Larry
Staff Writer

I freely admit I'm a news junkie and follow it on TV, the Internet, my smart phone, and even AM and FM radio.

Purchasing an iPad was also a good move as many restaurants and other places now have free Wi-Fi that allows me to connect to the Internet.

I'm also fascinated not only with the amount of news available but also what some consider to be news.

Here's a few examples of what I saw this week.

■ Alicia Silverstone feeding her 11-month-old son Bear. And what's wrong with that, you ask? Well, I'm happy she's feeding the boy but she's feeding him her pre-chewed food.

It's a process called "pre-mastication." And for me, that's just downright hard to swallow.

Not only that, it's nasty and unnatural. Silverstone said that the child's become so accustomed to it that when she's eating, he crawls across the floor to "attack my mouth."

The majority of us walking on the earth today learned as children to chew food and swallow without a whole lot of practice. That's why babies get soft food, so they can gum it around themselves.

■ Infant protective safety hats. For about $40 plus shipping, parents can feel safer by buying a helmet that will protect their toddler's head during the inevitable falls that occur while learning to walk.

While I'm certainly not making light of toddlers falling or physically challenged kids who wear helrets as protection, it does seem a little excessive that a child learning to walk wear a helmet much of the day.

Why, some people I know, myself included, are the way we are today from numerous falls during the growing up period.

I don't know how many times I've been asked if my mama dropped me when I was a baby.

And can you imagine going to preschool wearing one of those things? That child would be nicknamed some awful stuff that would follow him through to high school graduation.

■ The Trayvon Martin shooting. This is one that is really becoming old. Everybody and his sister is weighing in and rendering opinions on what should be done to George Zimmerman, the man who stands accused of killing Martin. The media circus surrounding this event and upcoming trial is going to be telecast around the world.

As I write this column on Friday morning, my go-to news Web site, www.msnbc.com has a big red banner across the top urging me to watch live a bond hearing for Martin.

■ The man who gave birth. Oh wait, let me file that under "Who cares?" Thomas Beatie, the transgendered man who first made headlines back in 2008 when he became pregnant and gave birth to a healthy daughter, has separated from his wife, Nancy, of nine years.

I mean really? Does anyone on earth care about this nonsense of men giving birth?

The above items are just a microcosm of the news that's put out there for the world to see.

Think I'll stick to regular old news that pertains to life and stay away from the weird stuff.

Hear me roar!

I met a couple of friends from Lexington for lunch in Danville recently. We settled down at our table for a nice visit. Along comes a young waitress who immediately says, "What would you girls like to drink?" Girls? Girls?? GIRLS???

Shoot, the three of us have long since passed the required age for membership in AARP. As a matter of fact, all three of us are on Medicare. There wasn't a "girl" to be seen in our bunch.

I find it very offensive to be called "girl" at my ripe and well-used age. A girl is a female child, usually one who is under 18 years of age. I am a woman and have been for 50 years, by doggies.

Years ago when I lived in Lexington I belonged to a club for businesswomen. The president, who was older than I, would address the group and call us girls.

We had one member who was close to 90 and I cannot imagine how she felt when the president would say, "Now, girls, we need to take a vote on what we're going to do for a fundraiser." I know it made me cringe.

Do people think they are being kind or are they just being stupid when they call a woman of any age a "girl"? I vote for stupid.

I'm sure there are some well-meaning folks out there who just don't know any better so I'm here to educate them. Ignorance is no excuse.

Another word that sets my

Joberta
WELLS
Columnist

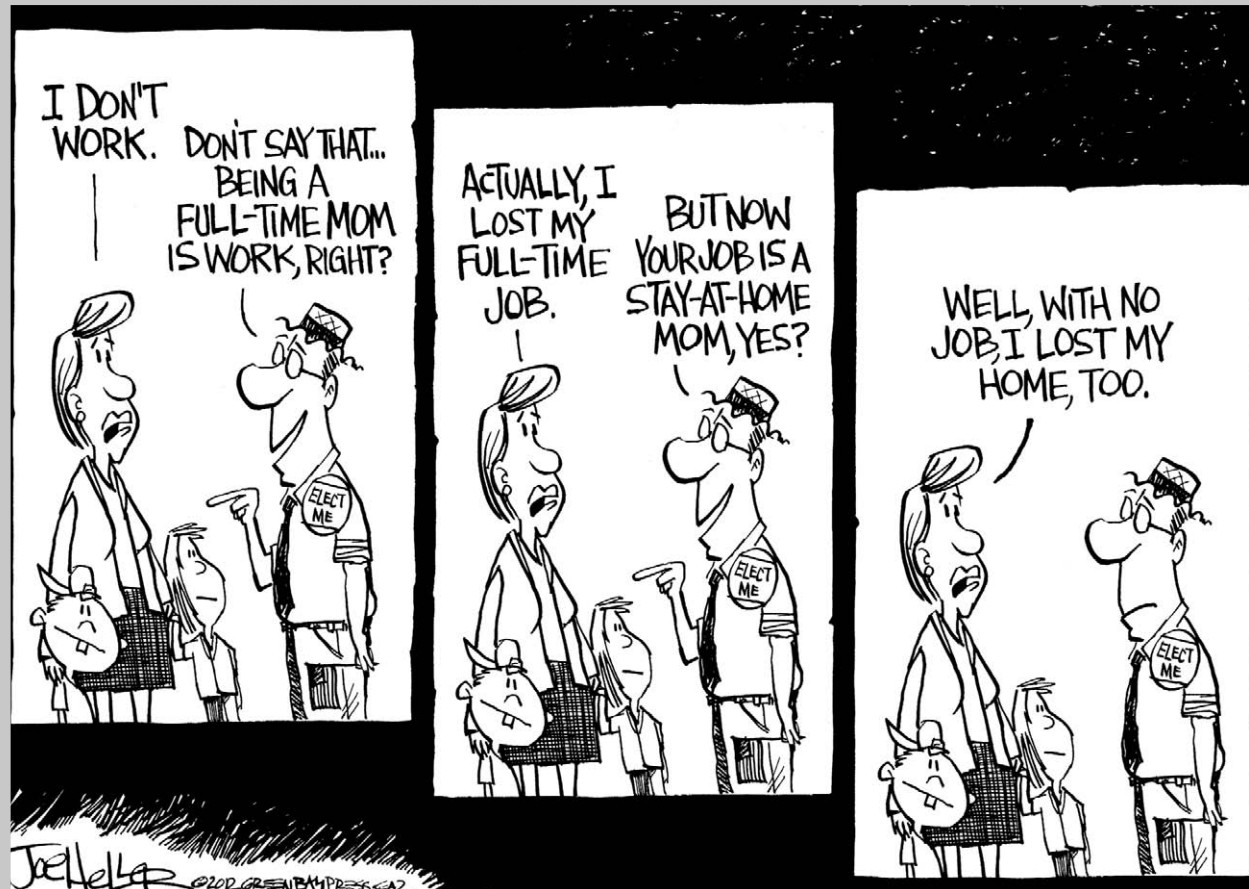

teeth on edge is "gal". I'll fight you over that one! Men seem to use this word more than women. To me it is such a derogatory word now that women have the right to vote, wear pants, and be CEOs of Fortune 500 companies.

So, what is the proper form of address for a group of women? "Ladies" seems to be the term of choice but that is not entirely proper.

According to the dictionary, a lady is a well-mannered and considerate woman with high standards of proper behavior. You can see right off why I question the use of "ladies". There have been times when I have NOT been well mannered and my behavior has been in questionable taste, much to my mother's chagrin.

I don't know the proper address for a group of women. I can't see that waitress asking our table, "Women, what do you want to drink?" All I ask is that she (and everyone else) doesn't call me "girl".

In 1975 Helen Reddy released a song, the first line of which was, "I am woman, hear me roar." It wasn't, "I'm girl." Girls don't roar – they squeal in high-pitched tones that can break your eardrums. Women don't squeal. We roar. Isn't that a hoot?

Eight letters: The space between their world and mine

Recognizing that the space between her world and the one she is slowly but surely entering is drawing closer. Pat Summitt, who has won more basketball games than anyone in NCAA history, stepped down as coach of the Tennessee Lady Vols last week. Summitt was diagnosed with early onset dementia last year, at the age of 58.

Early onset dementia attacks people younger than 65. Many are in their 40s and 50s, and some even in their 30s.

Alzheimer's disease, a form of dementia, affects millions. The statistics are staggering. According to the Alzheimer's Association, in 2011, 5.4 million Americans were living with Alzheimer's; 15,000,000 caregivers provide 17 billion hours of unpaid care at home; Alzheimer's costs the nation $200 billion annually, and someone develops the disease every 68 seconds.

If all the Alzheimer's patients were placed in one state, it would be the fifth largest in our nation.

It is predicted that if a cure for dementia is not found by 2050, 16 million Americans will have some form of the disease, with Alzheimer's being the most prevalent.

Life is by no means over with a dementia diagnosis. Like any good coach, Pat Summitt has a strategy to stay healthy as she faces Alzheimer's. And her son, Tyler, also a basketball coach, reminds us that we can learn from those with Alzheimer's.

"Despite (it), she has stuck to her principles and stayed strong in her faith. Her confidence to be open about this disease has taught me the importance of honesty," he said in an interview with Carol Steinberg of the Alzheimer's Foundation of America.

Tyler is right. Victims of this disease still have much to teach us. Entering their world on a fairly regular basis, I learn from them.

And every time I look into their eyes, I'm reminded that the space between their world and mine is only the length of that eight letter word: dementia.

One, whose blank stare appears fixated on the other side of the room, no longer recognizes me.

Only several years ago he was in the early days of retirement. I remember him then, still robust, vigorous, and active. And today, I miss that wry, almost cocky smile of his.

"We love you," I remind him.

"You're a good man," he says in a monotone voice with no facial expression.

I wonder if his answer is a standard response he learned years ago, like "hello," "good-bye," "how do you do?"

Stepping into the world of another, I ask this former leader in our church, "How are you doing?"

Without fail he answers the same, "Can't complain."

"Looks like you just finished eating. What did you have?" I ask.

Like a little boy who has been asked a question above his years of comprehension, he doesn't attempt to formulate a response but innocently looks to his wife for the answer.

Down the hall, I step into the world of another whose life changed years ago.

Walking her to the dining hall, she surprised me. Instead of the same question she normally repeats over and over, "Where am I?" this time she asked instead, "Who put me here?"

Not sure of the answer and not wanting to agitate her with a guess, I appeal to the highest source possible. "The Lord," I instantly told her, masking my hesitation.

"The Lord," she said, repeating it back to me, seemingly satisfied with my response, at least for another evaporating moment in her life, and then slowly, deliberately she declared, "Yes," like a math student who has just discovered the answer to an algebraic equation that became suddenly obvious.

Walking out of their world, I get in my car, and as I turn the ignition, I ponder how the space between their world and mine is encompassed by the same love of the One who has us both in his caring hands.

In "10 Gospel Promises for Later Life," Dr. Jane Marie Thibault tells about a nurse's answer to a dementia patient's question, "Honey, what's my name?"

After the nurse told her, the patient said, "Oh, that's right! Half the time I don't even know who I am!"

Then, pointing to a cross on the wall, she said confidently, "But he does, and that's all that counts!"

Indeed it is, no matter which side of that space you are living in.

Young chef to be featured on TV

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

A man with a Casey County connection is definitely being discovered as a rising chef in an area restaurant. And his talents are going to be featured on a TV food show this week.

Nicolas Wisecarver, 32, and a 1998 graduate of Casey County High School, is the executive chef at Mermaids Bistro in Danville.

Wisecarver will be featured on the TV program “Secrets of Bluegrass Chefs” on WTVQ ABC 36 on Saturday, April 28, at 7 p.m.

Secrets of Bluegrass Chefs is a Louisville-based TV show that traverses the state highlighting great places to eat and the chefs who create those mouth-watering plates.

TV Host Tim Laird gets in the kitchen with a chef to discover how he or she works.

Wisecarver said that during the show, he prepared an eight-ounce, local-sourced, “Kentucky Proud” filet that was served over a smoked cheddar polenta. As a side dish, he prepared a fricassee of wild mushrooms.

“Yes, it was good,” he said.

The young chef has a bright smile that lights up when he talks about his love for creating scrumptious masterpieces from scratch, using foods that are locally grown and raised.

“The food I prepare is as true to the earth as I can get it,” he said, adding that his slogan is “farm to table” and “sea to table.”

The beef he cooks is from Hubble Meats in Lincoln County. And, although the seafood may travel a great distance farther to get to Danville, it’s still fresh.

“Our seafood is caught by the Hawaii Fresh Seafood Co. and delivered the same day,” he said.

In addition to using locally grown ingredients, Wisecarver said that the chefs at Mermaids really cook, not just reheat frozen food or use highly processed ingredients.

“We’re not one of the chains that can get food out in 10 or 15 minutes. It takes time to properly prepare so we have a restaurant where people can relax and enjoy a glass of wine while waiting,” he said.

Cooking was something that always came pretty easy for Wisecarver, even from an early age.

The son of Jerry and Kathy Zachary and grandson of Paul and Ruth Wesley, Wisecarver grew up spending a lot of time with his grandmother in the kitchen.

And as he learned, he branched out and did more and more cooking.

“I was the kid who made breakfast in bed for his parents. I also entered the Boy Scout cooking contests,” he said.

Wisecarver has worked in the restaurant industry since 2000. He graduated from Sullivan University in Louisville, one of the country’s leading culinary programs.

Being featured on Secrets of Bluegrass Chefs has whet Wisecarver’s appetite for more cooking shows.

“I always wanted to be on Chopped, and maybe I will be,” he said.

ways civic and community minded,” she said.

In addition to being a co-owner of Griffin-Wesley Motors in Liberty from 1945-1972, Wesley also served for many years on the board at Casey County Bank.

In other business, the council:

■ Approved a resolution to accept a $50,000 Disaster

Recovery Grant from Gov. Steve Beshear’s office. The money will go to Liberty/Casey County Economic Development Authority and the grant will help replace some of the $155,000 given by the EDA to local businesses after the May 2010 flood.

■ Approved Sweeney’s request that the city take the Martin Luther King, Jr. federal holiday as a paid holiday for city workers.

■ Heard Planning and Zoning Committee Enforcement Officer Randy Dial ask for a second reading on setting side-yard setbacks on residential properties to 8 feet. Dial also asked for a second reading authorizing him to grant zoning permits. In addition, Dial asked the council to draft an ordinance concerning erecting fences in the city.

from 2011 and 2012 showing the prices and quantities purchased; the payroll records for all water employees for 2011 and 2012; the electrical bills of the water plant for 2011 and 2012; the insurance and retirement costs of all water employees for 2011 and 2012,” the letter from Greynolds stated.

Greynolds also asked in the letter that was delivered to City Hall on Friday morning that these records be furnished to the board by Monday at 4 p.m.

In his written response addressed to Assistant ECCWD Manager Eddie Wesley and not Greynolds, Sweeney pulled no punches.

Referring to the board’s request for documentation, Sweeney stated: “I believe this is impractical, unreasonable and frankly, vindictive. I do not believe that this letter was written in any way as a fact-finding inquiry. Rather, demanding all this information in such a short time is an indication of ill will.”

If an agreement cannot be reached before the April 26 meeting with the PSC, the City will have to furnish this type of information to the PSC before it will grant a rate increase, said PSC Public Spokesman Andrew Melnykovch.

However, the mayor toned down his rhetoric in the letter stating that he wanted to offer a compromise by going back to the original 27 cent proposal.

Sweeney softens

“I can assure you through my conversations with individual council members, there is a steadfast willingness to compromise on behalf of the city. My original request of a rate increase of 27 cents per 1,000 gallons is acceptable though it certainly does not put us in a ‘break-even’ position.

Sweeney ended the letter by extending an olive branch to the board.

“Again, I hope you will rest assured that the City stands ready to work with you to resolve any misunderstanding. We hope that we can find common ground and, acting as friends and neighbors, put our differences aside and work to provide water at the lowest possible price to the citizens of Casey County and Liberty,” Sweeney stated.

In addition, Sweeney said on Monday that he had furnished documentation to the board that should show why the increase is justified.

Greynolds said on Monday that he hopes a compromise can be reached.

Eight die on Kentucky roadways April 16-22

Preliminary statistics* indicate that eight people died in seven separate crashes on Kentucky roadways from Monday, April 16, through Sunday, April 22, 2012.

Seven of the fatalities involved motor vehicles and five victims were not wearing seat belts. Single-fatality crashes occurred in Boone, Campbell, Jefferson, McCracken and Wayne counties. The crash in Campbell County involved the suspected use of alcohol.

One double fatality motor vehicle crash occurred in Madison County.

One motorcycle involved fatal crash occurred in Fayette County.

Through April 22, 2012, preliminary statistics* indicate that 186 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roadways during 2012. This is eight fatalities less than reported for the same time period in 2011. There have been 156 motor vehicle fatalities and 94 of those victims were not wearing seat belts. Eighteen of those crashes involved a commercial motor vehicle. Twelve crashes involved a motorcycle and eight victims were not wearing helmets. Two crashes involved an ATV and one victim was not wearing a helmet. Fifteen crashes involved a pedestrian and one involved a bicycle. Thirty deaths have resulted from crashes involving the suspected use of alcohol.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

*These statistics are still preliminary as KSP waits for all local law enforcement agencies throughout the state to report any crashes and fatalities that may have occurred in their areas. Crash data for this report is generated from the Kentucky Fatality Analysis Reporting System (FARS).

Montgomery attends bill signing

AROUND THE AREA

No funds for new school

ADAIR COUNTY — Col. William Casey Elementary School, a Category 5 school in Adair County, characterized as being in the worst condition, will not be getting funds from the new state budget to build a new school.

Without state funding, the school district may not have enough money to float a bond issue for construction of the $11 million project.

Adair School Superintendent Darrell Treece said that the board would look for ways to economize and yet continue with the project.

These corner-cutting measures might involve bidding some items in the projects as alternates, but not cutting new technology for students.

Another possibility would be to use a shingle roof rather than a metal one, which could save as much as $100,000.

However, the board won't be able to explore these possibilities until June when the project has been bid to know the actual cost.

Police switch to digital communication

BOYLE COUNTY — Lennie Shepper-son, director of the Danville-Boyle County Emergency Management Agency, said switching to a digital communication system will eliminate the public's ability to eavesdrop on police scanner traffic but the change was not for that reason. The new digital system is an improvement in technology.

Danville police began using the new Next Edge Kenwood system about a month ago. In the coming months, Boyle County Sheriff's Department, Junction City and Perryville Police departments, fire departments, road crews, and animal control will be switching to digital.

Interim Danville Police Chief Tony Gray said police and other agencies are federally mandated to go digital by 2013. He said Danville chose to switch earlier because of the upcoming vice-presidential debate.

Mayor pro tem making changes in Hustonville

LINCOLN COUNTY — Lowell Mark Spivey became Hustonville's mayor pro tem on March 6 when former mayor Cecil Maddox resigned unexpectedly. Since that time Spivey has been setting both short- and long-term goals for the mayor's position. He plans to seek election to that office in the fall.

Some areas he is addressing for changes are the addition of street signs, paving, and problems with the water system pump house. He has already been involved with clean-up of the creek in town, which had been clogged with rubbish since a flood years ago. The city is also in the process of retooling the fire department with better equipment. Spivey told the city council that he is accepting bids to make repairs to the city's pumping facility, something that is two years overdue.

Spivey is also addressing the long-term goal of putting in a city sewer system in order to attract businesses -- such as a grocery, shops, and restaurants -- to the town.

Sisters of Loretto turning 200

MARION COUNTY — In 1812, Mary Rhodes, Christina Stuart and Ann Havern took their vows at St. Charles Catholic Church in St. Mary, becoming the founding members of the Sisters of Loretto under the guidance of Fr. Charles Nerinckx.

Two hundred years later, the order has had 3,133 members who have reached across the globe. Today, the order's 215 sisters and 214 co-members are active in 31 states and 11 countries.

On April 22-26, the Loretto community will celebrate the anniversary of its founding with a homecoming celebration for members of the order at the Loretto Motherhouse, located in Nerinx, just outside the city of Loretto. More than 225 Loretto members are expected to attend the anniversary celebration.

Where the order started with an educational mission (that still continues in many places), the Sisters of Loretto are also working on environmental issues, poverty and causes affecting women and children.

Driver drives off with gas nozzle in tank, pulls pump from base

PULASKI COUNTY — The Burnside Volunteer Fire Department received a report of a gasoline pump fire at Hardwick's Service Center on South U.S. 27 in Burnside. When they arrived on the scene, they found a customer had accidentally driven away from the pump with the gasoline nozzle and hose still in his pickup truck's gasoline tank. The pump had been pulled away from its concrete base and a small fire had been sparked when the pump fell over.

Pulaski County Public Safety Director Tiger Robinson responded to the incident and said it appeared that possibly something electrical had caused a spark that ignited a small fire. The fire was extinguished quickly and, as per protocol, electricity to the pumps was shut off.

Robinson said that gasoline pumps are designed to break away in such cases to ensure that any fires aren't fueled by the gasoline tanks located below the pumps. If safety features work correctly, the fire will burn itself out.

The pump was taped off and will not be operational until the Kentucky Fire Marshall's Office can investigate the incident and inspect the equipment after it has been repaired.

Cruisin' season starts

RUSSELL COUNTY — The Old Boys Toys car shows have started in Russell County. They will be held on the third Saturday of each month from April through September. They get under way at 10 a.m. and go until 2 p.m. at Sonic Drive-In in Russell Springs.

There will be trophies for the top five vehicles along with the Don Franklin Memorial Trophy for the best of show. Judging will be done by those participating in the show.

There will also be a show held on July 7 during Lakefest that will be not only for all-original cars, as has been done in the past, but will be open to modified cars, hot rods and street rods.

Accused arsonists plead guilty

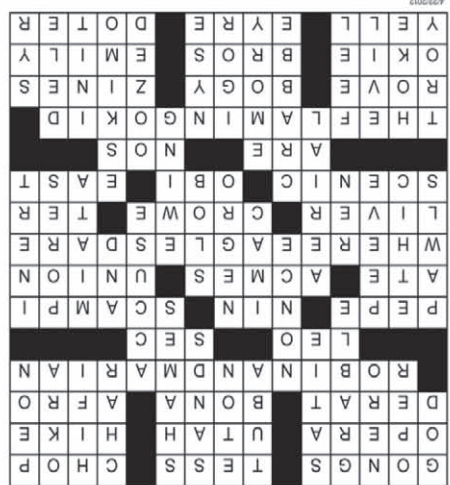

TAYLOR COUNTY — The six men accused of setting several houses on fire in Taylor County have pleaded guilty to amended charges and have been granted diversions in lieu of prison sentences. The six were indicted by a Taylor County grand jury in February. Five of those indicted were from Campbellsville. They are Kyle Corbin, 23; Scott Lee Underwood, 19; Dustin Begley, 19; Justin Eugene Atwood, 19; and Tyler Steven Edrington, 19. The sixth, Levi Dalton Joseph Hickerson, 21, is from Greensburg.

According to the indictment, the six defendants allegedly set the homes on fire between Sept. 11 and Nov. 3 of last year.

Corbin and Atwood pleaded guilty to seven counts of third-degree arson. Underwood and Begley pleaded guilty to six counts and Hickerson and Edrington pleaded guilty to two counts of the charge. The six were all granted five-year pretrial diversions, or three-year diversions if they pay restitution in full.

Tomatoes are season's most popular vegetable garden plant

By Joberta Wells

Staff Writer

Tomato plants are the promise of spring, their fruit is the glory of summer, and when canned they are the blessing of fall and winter.

Tomatoes are the most popular vegetable garden plant purchased this time of year, according to Homestead Gardens greenhouse owner, Lena Mae Nolt. This was seconded by Verna Hoover, owner of Hillside Greenhouse.

Nolt said that two of the most popular tomatoes at her greenhouse are Big Beef and Mountain Fresh.

"Big Beef is very disease resistant and you hardly have to spray it unless you have a very wet summer," said Nolt.

Mountain Fresh is a favorite among farmers who are growing tomatoes for retail sale. Nolt said it is very firm and is a good shipper.

Rutgers, a long-time canning favorite, does not seem as popular as it once was, according to Nolt.

"Mr. Stripey, an heirloom tomato, is very popular now. It was the first striped one around here," said Nolt.

She went on to say that she preferred Pineapple, another heirloom, because "you don't get as many 'cat faces' (misshapen fruits)."

A customer at Homestead Gardens, Beverly Clements, had a cart loaded with packs of tomatoes in several sizes. She explained her choices. One was a yellow tommy toe named Tumbling Tom. These she plans to put in hanging pots.

"They spill over the sides of the pot like some flowers do," said Clements.

She also pointed out Golden Jubilee, Better Boy, and Big Beef, which she will plant in pots on her porch.

Clements has a small greenhouse where her Better Boy and Big Beef tomato plants will be placed until they have grown a few more weeks.

She planned on potting the others as soon as she got home. Clements pointed out that she always pots her tomatoes in Miracle-Gro® potting soil.

Verna Hoover said the most popular tomatoes at Hillside Greenhouse besides Mountain Spring are Mountain Fresh, and Beefsteak. Mountain Fresh is also very popular for those farmers growing for the retail market.

"We've got lots of heirlooms and are getting lots of calls for them," said Hoover.

She went on to list some of the most popular heirlooms, which are Pineapple, Mr. Stripey, Red Brandywine, Hillbilly, German Johnson, and Cherokee Purple. In addition to heirloom tomato plants, Hillside Greenhouse also carries heirloom tomato seeds.

Teresa Luttrell, owner of Ridgetop Greenhouse, said that Mountain Spring is her number one tomato for farmers who are growing for farmers' markets.

"They have a tough skin but they have a good shelf life," said Luttrell.

Luttrell said that the most popular tomatoes for the "back yard" gardener at her greenhouse are Celebrity, Mr. Stripey, and Big Boy. She also said that Rutgers is still popular among her customers for canning and Roma is the tomato of choice for juice. Luttrell said there are three other heirlooms besides Mr. Stripey that are becoming more popular — Old German, Brandywine, and Jubilee.

These hanging tomato plants are an example of several different ways that the tasty vegetable can be grown using a minimum amount of space.

Navigating a farmers market

Farmers markets provide a chance for the public to get high-quality, fresh foods and support farmers in their community. Selling at the markets gives farmers a chance to tell others about their operation and agriculture in general.

In the past few years, people's interest in farmers markets has climbed. The renewed interest is likely due to people trying to improve their diets and increasing awareness about the environmental benefits of buying foods from local farmers. Because of this, people, who have never been to a farmers market before, may be planning to go to a farmers market this year.

If you've never been to a farmers market, you should know that most vendors are locally based. When you buy from them, you're contributing directly to your local economy. Most of these vendors have small operations and because of their operation's size, cannot sell their produce to large commercial wholesalers. Additionally, many producers incorporate sustainable measures into their agricultural practices to preserve the quality of their soil and water and minimize the use of chemicals on their products.

When you buy from a farmers market, you are likely buying produce that is at the peak of its freshness and picked within a day or two of coming to the market. Look for produce that is in-season. Some examples of in-season produce are as follows:

Spring: asparagus, black-

berries, lettuce, peas, spinach and strawberries

Summer: blueberries, cherries, cucumbers, green beans, melons, okra, sweet corn, tomatoes and zucchini

Fall: apples, broccoli, cauliflower, collard greens, pears, pumpkins, squash and sweet potatoes

Winter: beets, cabbage, carrots, onions, winter squash and turnips

Good produce doesn't mean it is without aesthetic flaws. High-quality fruits and vegetables are crisp and brightly colored. For some fruits, like a peach or melon, a strong scent means they're perfectly ripening. Produce that is limp, soft or not crisp is likely over ripe and beginning to lose some of its nutritional value, texture and flavor.

If you aren't going to use the produce immediately, make sure it's safely stored to maintain its quality and freshness. You should store fresh fruits and vegetables for as little time as possible as they will lose nutrients and quality over time. Potatoes, onions and winter squash should be stored in a cool, dark place, unwashed. Keep all other vegetables refrigerated at temperatures at or below 40 degrees Fahrenheit. Place peeled or cut produce in tightly covered containers within two hours

Attention gardeners and farmers

A group is forming at an initial planning meeting on Thursday, May 3, at 6 p.m. at the Casey County Extension Office.

The goal is to get a working group together to plan future events, programs, workshops and collaborative promotional and other activities for gardeners and farmers of all levels, interests and pursuits. All input, backgrounds, gardening and farming styles and practices, garden hobbyists or professionals are welcome. All you need is an interest in gardening, farming or foraging and agriculture in the region.

This group is not affiliated with any one organization or group and is very much in the formation stage. If you plan to attend this first meeting, or if you are interested in being on a future mailing list for activities and events, please call 606-787-7384, email debbie.shepherd@uky.edu or info@CatherinePond.com or friend "GROW Casey County" on Facebook for additional information.

AFJROTC celebrates accomplishments at 'Dining Out' event

By Larry Rowell
Staff Writer

Casey County High School Air Force JROTC cadets celebrated individual and unit accomplishments and awards at the end-of-the-year "Dining Out" event Friday night at the CCHS cafeteria.

The 74 cadets — resplendent in their dress blue uniforms and regal military manner — shared the formal event with about 180 family members, friends and guests.

The "Dining Out" is designed to build "esprit de corps" among the troops and their family members.

The dining-out tradition evolved from the "dining-in" — probably began with General H. "Hap" Arnold and his Air Corps officers and their British colleagues of the Royal Air Force during World War II, said Air Force MSgt. Gary Emerson, who leads the unit along with Air Force Lt. Col. Andy Hall.

Whereas the dining-in is for military personnel only, the dining-out is for fellowship and building closer ties among the military members and non-military members of the community.

It was also a night of sadness as the cadets said goodbye to Hall, who recently announced that he would be retiring after five years with the program at CCHS.

More than 19 national and local awards were presented to the cadets.

Cadet of the Year honors went to Nora Turner while the Flight of the Year went to Alpha Flight.

Alicia Holton and Andrew Walters received the $500 "Become the Difference" W.R. and M.L. McFarland Memorial Scholarship provided by Doug and Nicki Johnson in memory of Nicki's parents.

Walters also took home three other awards — Daughters of the American Revolution, Outstanding Cadet Ribbon, and the Army National Guard Annual Community Involvement award.

Cadet Jennifer Rowe won the Air Force Association award, Outstanding Cadet Ribbon, and she was also named the Distinguished Cadet for 2012.

Other award winners included:

Casey hosts all-comers meet at home

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

The track and field teams hosted their only home meet this season April 17 and competed in the E.G. Plummer Invitation at Danville on Friday, where the girls’ brought home the first place title.

The team is dealing with a shortened season with the state and regional meets two weeks earlier than in the past.

“They moved it because of the testing window,” said Head Coach Matt Willoughby. “Everybody is dealing with what we’re dealing with. I don’t think anybody is going to get to their full potential this season. I really think next year they’ll try to kick it back to when school is out.”

E.G. Plummer

The girls’ team brought home the meet title on Friday evening, outscoring five other teams for the E.G. Plummer Invitational title.

“We had a pretty good night, even with two of our key players not there,” said Willoughby.

Jasmine Johnson and Lakken Miller were absent from the meet, both of whom run on relay teams.

“We were kind of scrambling and moving people around,” said Willoughby. “They filled in nicely. I think we got points in every event but one.”

Nicole Nagy was the meet’s leading point scorer, with 27 points, as well as earning the Best Performance award, breaking the meet’s pole vault record.

Nagy and Shelby Stringer competed in a three-way jump off with Lexington Christian for the pole vault title and claim to the meet record of 8’0”.

Stringer came out on top and Stringer took second.

Nagy also scored heavily in the jumps, taking second in both the long and triple jump.

High points were also claimed in the field at the discus circle, where Abby Meece had a winning throw of 83’4”. Bethany Scott was not far behind with a third place finish of 79’3”.

Allison Dallman earned second in the high jump, clearing 4’10”.

On the track, Kaitlyn Carmicle was one of the top performers, scoring points in four events that spanned a five-event streak.

Carmicle began by taking an individual first in the 100M hurdles with a time of 16.7. She turned around to earn third in the 100M dash in 13.94 with Tiara Cochran just behind her in second.

Carmicle and Cochran were joined by Stringer and Laura Parris directly after the dash to capture third in the 4x200M relay with a time of 1:54.7.

The relay team rested during the mile run before hitting the track again to compete in the 4x100M relay. This time the team took second with a time of 54.19.

The boys’ squad did not place high as a team, but the Rebels saw highlights individually.

“All of the boys are progressing,” said Willoughby.

Micah Smith brought home two silver medals in his favored events. He cleared 5’10” for second in the high jump and vaulted 10’6” to capture second in the pole vault.

Collin Miller gained some sprint attention with a third place finish in the 200M dash and the time of 27.42.

Casey All-Comers

Casey hosted an all-comers meet last Tuesday in lieu of an invitational event.

“We hosted the CKC (Central Kentucky Conference) last year,” said Willoughby. “This year, mainly it’s just a lack of participation (in the area). When you start restricting by classes you have an even smaller field.”

Five teams competed at Casey, where the Lady Rebels finished second to Rockcastle County.

Casey County girls’ earned five firsts in the evening: three on the track and two in the field.

In addition to winning the 100M hurdles in 17.6, Carmicle contributed to three relay teams.

She ran a leg in both the 4x100M and 4x200M relays, both of which captured firsts. Parris, Miller and Jasmine Johnson joined her in the 4x200. Stringer replaced Miller on the 4x100.

The 4x200M team came together again at the end of the night to double their distance and each run a leg of the 4x400M relay. The ladies took second place with a time of 4:43.1.

Despite having a better distance on Tuesday than she did on Friday, Meece took second in the discus with her 86’4” throw. She also earned third in the shot put, throwing 25’3”. Scott also placed in both events.

Miller took first in the high jump, clearing 4’8”. Nagy also cleared 4’8” but took second due to scratches.

Rebels win battle against Berea

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Rebel baseball team won a long, hard fought battle last Tuesday evening when they hosted Berea. The 13-inning game was decided by one run to give Casey the win, 6-5.

“That was the longest game I’ve ever been involved in,” said Head Coach Greg Hammond. “We were down and the kids fought back. We used just about every pitcher we could use.”

Casey County (7-13, 0-5), was scoreless for three innings to start the game. Berea (8-10) did not earn any runs until the third inning, when they collected two.

Casey responded, and put their first run up in the fourth inning but Berea turned around to score the only run in the fifth inning, to make the score 3-1, Casey trailing.

The Rebels brought in two runs in the sixth inning to tie the game, 3-3. A scoreless seventh inning sent the teams into an eighth round of play where they each scored a single run.

The score stood 4-4 as Casey and Berea moved through four more innings. It was the 13th inning before Berea went up 5-4.

“When the game was on the line, we led off with our freshman, Chris Terry,” said Hammond.

Terry got on with a base hit and Chris Lee followed with a bunt.

“Logan Weddle, our senior, came through and ripped one. He connected,” said Hammond.

Weddle’s hit sent Terry and Lee home for two runs to put Casey on top for the 6-5 victory.

Casey was defeated by district opponent, Somerset (12-7, 4-1), 5-0 on Thursday. Previously, the team lost to Somerset 14-1.

“We played really well against Somerset,” said Hammond.

Casey was scheduled to compete in Central Hardin’s Wooden Bat Classic this past weekend. The tournament was canceled due to rain.

Casey lost to Rockcastle, 11-1, on Monday. See next week’s issues for complete results.

The Rebels host Pulaski County on Thursday and travel to Wayne County on Friday and Russell County on Monday.

Casey softball team struggles against Somerset, Pulaski

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Lady Rebel softball team fell in two more district games last week bringing their record to 13-0, 0-4.

“We had some struggles last week against Somerset and Pulaski,” said Head Coach Brook Shelton.

vs. Somerset

The ladies traveled to Pulaski County last Tuesday and were defeated 13-0.

Pulaski started with two runs in the first inning and followed it with six to make the score 8-0 by the end of the second inning.

Casey held the Lady Maroons to one run in the third but went scoreless themselves. Pulaski earned four runs in the fourth and the teams called it a night.

vs. Somerset

Somerset jumped ahead on Thursday evening, with 12 runs in the first inning. Afterwards, Casey managed to minimize their opponents scoring and lost 17-2.

“Ashley McQueary pitched very well against Somerset Thursday night,” said Shelton. “We also had

Tennis Rebs now 14-0

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

The wins continue to accumulate for the Rebel tennis team, now 14-0, after three earned wins last week and one win due to forfeit by Wayne County.

The boys triumphed 5-4 in “nail biters,” as Head Coach Phil William called them, against Boyle County and Garrard County. Casey also won 8-1 against Clinton County on Saturday.

“We’ve battled really, really hard,” said Williams on the team’s perfect season.. “People are capable of beating us on any given night. We’re just going out and playing one game at a time.”

Ryan Martin earned three wins in the one seed position for Casey throughout the week’s play.

After Martin’s point against Boyle County, Casey gave up three singles points, including a close match where Skyler Wright fell to Boyle’s Ben Kendrick, 7-5, 9-8 (7-5).

Taylor Leigh and Luke Salyers tied the singles scoring with two wins from the five and six positions, bringing the match to 3-3.

The Rebels sealed the victory over Boyle in doubles play by mixing and matching their pairs and earning number two and three seed wins.

vs. Garrard

Williams rearranged Casey’s positions when they faced Garrard County and earned four singles wins.

“There are times that, position wise, players have a chance to move up or I may move one down, depending upon the type of player,” said Williams. “Sometimes if you get a power hitter against a control hitter it throws things off a bit. We’ve been around long enough to know where most of our strengths are.”

Martin, Wright, Hunter Pierce and Salyers all prevailed in singles play against Garrard. A lone doubles win from Trent Rodgers and Salyers gave Casey its five necessary points to win the match.

vs. Clinton

Casey’s only loss in the 8-1 victory over Clinton County came in the third seed doubles match. Rodgers and Justin Underwood fell 8-4.

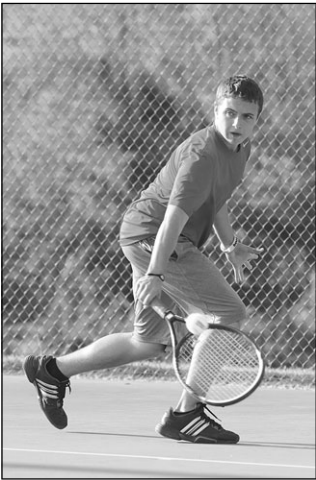

Martin picked up a narrow victory in the singles one position, 8-6. Clay Cannon and Wright competed in the doubles one seed, also winning by a narrow margin of 8-6.

The Rebels were scheduled to host Wayne County on Friday, but the opponent did not show.

Casey faced Lincoln County last night (April 24) and will travel to Mercer County Thursday, Berea on Friday and host Marion County on Saturday.

The 12th Region teams will meet to draw for the post-season tournament seed matches on Monday, April 30.

Lady Rebs add two victories to season

By Rita “Peat” Harris
Sports Correspondent

The Lady Rebels added two victories to their current eight-game win streak. Casey’s season record is now 9-1 with Head Coach Tommy Wood back in the action.

“We’ve improved a lot from the beginning of the season to this point,” said Wood, who has returned after recovering from surgery. “It’s the first year that I’ve ever coached where we’ve got 10 players who can serve and return a serve.”

Casey earned their sixth clean sweep of the season by beating Berea 9-0 Thursday. The ladies also dominated Boyle County for the second time this season, winning 8-1.

Tylyn Leigh’s undefeated record carried another week, to give her nine wins in the singles one seed.

“She’s been playing excellent,” said Wood. “She’s playing a level above what she was playing last year.”

The team’s number one doubles team, Haley Owens and Allie Tinsley, continues to show strength as well. They won 6-4, 6-2 against Boyle and 8-1 against Berea. The team is 8-1 for the season, having lost only to Mercer County in their first match of the season.

“They’ve been playing quite well these last three matches,” said Wood. “They’ve been playing with more aggressiveness.”

Casey will reface Mercer

County this week. The Lady Rebels fell to the Lady Scotties 4-5, in March.

“Unfortunately we had three matches cancelled before we played Mercer County,” said Wood. “We had to play them the first game of the season. I didn’t plan it that way. If we’d had a couple of matches under our belt we’d have been more on target to beat them.”

Casey hosted Danville on Monday, winning the match 9-0. They faced Lincoln on Tuesday and host Mercer Thursday. They turn around to host Monticello on Friday and travel to Southwestern Pulaski on Saturday.

The ladies’ 12th Region seeding meeting will be held April 30.

Viewpoint column: Wrong numbers

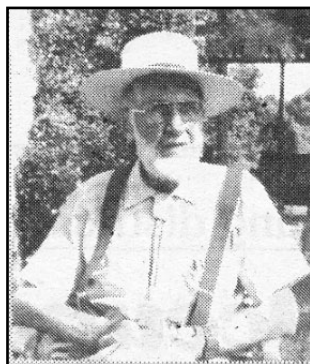

Originally published in the Jan. 25, 1984 issue of The Casey County News

Although our numbers aren't alike, we keep getting calls for Hill's Pharmacy in Liberty. When they ask if we're pharmacists, we reply, "No, I'm a polomologist — a student or professional of fruit trees.

An old lady used to call us two or three times a week, and after a few such calls we talked to her at length.

She was a Baptist, she said, and we latched onto the idea of trying to convert to Christian Science.

We had some interesting conversations, but she remained a true Baptist, although she refused to be a born-again type.

The callers we dislike are the ones who ask, "Who is this?" to which we reply, "Who do you want?"

Sometimes they tell us, but generally they slam down the receiver. "Wham."

Police News

Two charged with DUI

Clifton W. Hale, 52, of 261 Phillips St., Liberty, was arrested on April 13 by Lt. Ronnie Smith and Officer Kerry Patten. Court records indicate that Hale was involved in a single vehicle collision striking a road sign on Gritton Street. He admitted to officers that he was drinking alcoholic beverages.

■ Shannon D. Tarter, 38, of 10032 South Ky. 501, Liberty, was arrested on April 13 by Trooper Bryan Shepherd. Tarter was also charged with possession of open alcoholic beverage container in a motor vehicle. The citation stated that Deputy Freeman Luttrell checked a vehicle at 11:35 p.m. at Shannon's Grocery with Tarter inside. She admitted to drinking alcoholic beverages.

Man charged with using blue lights

Tommy J. Bradley, 24, of 7735 North Ky. 55, Jamestown, was cited by Sgt. Randy Dial on April 13 and charged with improper use of blue lights. Dial stated that Bradley was traveling north on Wallace Wilkinson Boulevard flashing blue lights on the front and sides of the vehicle.

Man arrested for terroristic threats

Larry Spelts, 64, of 199 Wall St., Liberty, was arrested on April 20 by Deputy Chad Weddle and charged with third-degree terroristic threatening. Spelts is accused of threatening to kill Danny Stacy with a gun, the arrest warrant stated.

Man charged with theft

Tyler Marples, 29, of 1310 Ky. 1859, Liberty, was cited by Deputy Chad Weddle for theft by unlawful taking under $500. Weddle stated that Marples admitted to taking a 5-foot bush hog and other assorted farm implement items belonging to George and Steve Waters on Ky. 1859. Marples is accused of selling the items to Butler's Recycling on April 10 for $230.40.

Woman charged with not sending child to school

Sandra Stacy, of 2529 Ky. 910, Liberty, was cited by Deputy Jamie Walters and charged with first and second offenses of parent or custodian to send child to school. The summons stated that from Oct. 7, 2011 to March 22, 2012, Stacy failed to send her 9-year-old child to Walnut Hill Elementary. The child had 10.5 un-excused absences and was tardy 11 times.

Man cited for littering

Larry W. Humphrey, 50, of 27 Cedar Hill Road, Liberty, was cited by Sheriff Jerry Coffman and charged with criminal littering and criminal trespass. The citation states that Humphrey admitted to placing bags of garbage inside a barn belonging to someone else. Coffman told Humphrey to remove the garbage and after a week he had removed only part of it, court records indicate.

Two charged with burglary

Jason D. Brummett, 26, of 410 N. 4th St., Danville, was arrested by Trooper Morris Farris, on April 14 and charged with second-degree burglary and theft by unlawful taking. The criminal complaint states that Brummett, along with Jordan L. McAninch, 24, of 2060 Bowen Road, Stanford, unlawfully entered a house owned by Diana Ratcliff and took various items of copper, electrical wiring, and two heating and air conditioning units. The value of the property taken was $9,350.

Man charged with leaving accident scene

Richard B. Cade, 34, of 5669 Ky. 1680, Jamestown, was cited on April 18 by Deputy Chad Weddle for leaving the scene of an accident, hit-and-run. Weddle stated that Cade was involved in a two-vehicle accident on Ky. 910 and 501 and left the scene before officers arrived.

Man arrested for keeping vehicle

Anthony Bulington, 31, of Cooper Ridge Road, Liberty, was arrested on a warrant by Deputy Chad Weddle on April 19 and charged with theft by failure to make required disposition. The warrant states that Bulington borrowed a 1994 Chevrolet Blazer from Pamela Wilson on Jan. 15, 2011 and failed to return the vehicle to her.

Burglary at Country Club

An Ex-Mark Lazer riding mower and two weed eaters — a Stihl FS110 and a Husqvarna 326 — were stolen from a maintenance building at Hickory Hills Country Club on Short Town Road sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning, said Deputy Chad Weddle. It's possible that a golf cart was also stolen. The missing items are valued at $10,600. Anyone with any information is asked to contact the sheriff's office at 606-787-6821.

Linda Spears of Cincinnati submitted this picture of her mother, the late Bertha Hodge, with Mike Snider of the Grand Ole Opry on Oct. 8, 1994. Snider was well known for playing the banjo.

of allowing Davis to build the road.

Wilson stated in a March 14 letter that the terms of the deed prohibited the city from conveying any portion of the property.

At the special called City Council meeting on April 18, Davis told the council that he never officially got word as to the outcome of his request.

Sweeney said that Wilson stated that it couldn't be done, according to terms of the deed.

Council member Brad Vaughn said that the council needed to do what it could to resolve this issue.

"It makes more sense for that street to go across there. We're going to have to have a street there eventually," he said.

Davis presented council members a plat showing where he would exchange 45 feet on the south end of his property adjoining the park for the 50 feet that he needed on the north end to build the street.

"I'm willing to trade that to you, so you guys would be losing five feet," Davis said.

Councilman Brian Beeler said that he didn't have a problem with Davis' proposal if it could legally be done.

Sweeney asked the council's permission to have Wilson write a letter to the Kentucky Revenue Cabinet — with a copy of the plat — seeking permission to exchange the land with the understanding that the city would be able to use the street into the park.

Should the Revenue Cabinet approve the city's request, Davis would build the street including curbs and gutters and then the council would vote to accept the street into the city inventory, Sweeney said.

- Wanted -

The following people are wanted by the Casey County Sheriff's Department on outstanding bench warrants. If anyone has any information on any of those listed below, they are asked to call the sheriff's office at 787-6821. The bench warrants were active as of April 24.

Breanna Paige Harrison, 12-4-81, nine arrest warrants.

Josh Roy, arrest warrant.

Sherri Randolph, 12-19-67, bench warrant.

Nancy K. Boyken, 10-16-71, bench warrant.

Joshua T. Roy, 9-2-81, bench warrant.

Jose A. Hernandez, 11-15-75, bench warrant.

Carlos Ortis, 5-17-89, bench warrant.

"We are so excited that the residents of Casey County and surrounding counties will be able to utilize Casey County Hospital's new Hologic Selenia Digital Mammography System. We know that mammograms are an important screening tool that can save lives. The American Cancer Society recommends that ladies start getting yearly mammograms starting at the age of 40; however, if you have a family history, or if something doesn't seem right, you should talk to your doctor about getting a mammogram sooner. In addition to mammograms, women should be doing self breast exams and clinical breast exams with their doctor."
